NEW BUILDINGS.-Mr. C. C. Kembl New Bulldings.—Mr. C. C. Kemble, the architect, has recently furnished plans for three fine residences to be erected on the site of the old Sweeney mansion, on Main street. Two of these will be two-story brick buildings, with mansard roofs and all modern improvements. They will be erected by Stifel Brothers. Adjoining these Mr. Wm. Isett proposes to erect a fine three-story brick, which will be handsomely finished and probably cost about $15,000. Dr. Will. Bates, jr., will at an early day erect a double brick dwelling house on 12th street, adjoining his father's residence. A number of other fine residences and business houses, already noticed in these columns, are under contract.

OFFORED TO A REDUCTION.—A petition will be handed to the City Council at the meeting to morrow evening, opposing any reduction in the coffee house license, or any division of the license discriminating in favor of wine, beer, etc. The aignatures of over eighty promibent citizens are attached to the paper.

SERMON ON THE LICENSE QUESTION LAST NIGHT.—At a recent meeting of the City Council a petition was received from a number of saloon keepers, asking for a division of the coffee house license into a number of saloon Keepers, saking aft a division of the coffee house license into two kinds, viz: a general saloon license, which includes whisky, and a wine and beer license. This petition, which was referred to the Committee on Ordinances for report, seems to have attracted the attention of the temperance people, who as a general thing have no faith in the wine was for intemmerance.

tention of the temperature ageneral thing have no faith in the wine cure for intemperance.

It having been announced that Rev. Reiley, pastor of the Fourth Street M.E. Church, would preach a sermon on this interesting question last night, his church was crowded with friends of the temperance cause, and others who went from curiosity to hear what he had to say upon the subject. The opening services consisted of the usual reading of a selection from the Bible, prayer and singing by the well-trained choir of the Church-Miss Kate Wheat, who possesses a very from the Bible, prayer and singing by the well-trained choir of the Church-Miss Kate Wheat, who possesses a very sweet and well cultivated voice, singing a solo in excellent taste. The Doctor took for his text the 1st verse of the 20th chapter of Proverbs, reading as follows: "Wine is a mockery strong drink is raging; and whosover is deceived thereby is not wise."

Upon this text he went on to say that the art of distillation was unknown in the days of Solomon. Various terms which have been rendered in our language by the common denomination of wine, were employed in the original tongue to describe the fruit of the vine, in the various stages through which it passed, from the vintage till it achieved, through fermentation, its highest intoxicating quality. Strong drink was the product of fermentation from dates, and was even more intoxicating than the strongest wine.

Deception characterized both, as indeed it does all intoxicating liquors, and the pleas by which such are fastened upon ciety are of the same nature.

1. It is assumed, for instance, that ma is so constituted that he must and wil icating drinks are advocated as meeting the necessity. Science on the contrary the necessity. Science on the contrary proves that the intoxicating quality in them, alcohol, is a poison, and every day observation gives terrible confirmation to observation gives terrible confirmation to the truth.

It is further assumed that while distilled liquors are pernicious the same is not true of vinous and fermented. But the assumption is disproved by the fact that these are also decidedly alcoholic, hence their intoxicating quality. According to the chemical analysis made by Sansure and Brande years ago, it was proved that in our best wines, such as Port and Maderia, as received and used in this country, nearly one half was alcohol. About six ounces of this poison will be found in a quart of strong cider, and little less than four in a bottle of porter or ale. An alarming fact in this connection is the progress which has been made in the art of adulteration, by which an article deadly in itself is rendered more pernicious by the poisonous drugs which are added to it to preserve the taste and effect, and this art of adulteration notoriously.

And this art of adulteration notoriously

4. The cheapening of liquor licenses was tried in England some years ago, under the advocacy of such men as Lord Brougham, the Duke of Wellington, &c., all of whom lived long enough to see their folly, and the evil effects of which are sadly realized to-day, in the spread of drunkenness. by the poisonous drugs which are added to it to preserve the taste and effect, and this art of adulteration notoriously in includes the wines and beers of this country. Solomon exclaimed years ago: "Who hath contentions? Who hath babbling? Who hath wortow? Who hath babbling? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath contentions? Who hath babbling? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek mixed wine." "Look not upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serient that through the adulteration of wine and kindred drinks, men reach all these results, even to the serpent's bite and adder's sting, much sooner than formerly. S. Hence we see the fallacy of another assumption, namely, that the best way to promote temperance is to license and encourage wine and beer houses. This assumption is not only liable to suspicion from the quarter from which it emanates (the vast majority of those who advocate it being men notorionaly interested against temperance), but it is unphilosophical and contradicted by facts. The way to cure a vitiated appetite (such as the appetite for alcoholic stimulants) is not to pamper it by indulgence. We are
